CRS Operating Grant
2012 Competition

DISCLAIMER AND INDEMNITY

In accepting a grant (of whatever nature or designation) from the Cancer Research Society (herein called the CRS), the undersigned candidate (herein called the Grantee) acknowledges that he or she remains independent from the CRS and that the issuance of the grant and/or the carrying out of planned research does not create a relationship of partnership, agency or master-service (employer-employee) between the CRS and the Grantee.

The issuance of a grant does not constitute an opinion by the CRS of the planned research nor does it entail approval by it of the results of the research.

The CRS shall not be responsible for any loss, injury or damage arising out of the research or actions of the Grantee.

Should his/her project be funded by the Cancer Research Society, the Grantee and all the co-candidates authorize the CRS to transmit the summary of the aforementioned research project as well as their names, profiles and photographs. This information could be used in the annual reports, the Website, the documents of information of the CRS as well as with donors, partners and the mass media. The Grantee and the co-candidates agree to participate, within reason, in interviews promoting the Cancer Research Society. The Cancer Research Society promises on the basis of "better efforts" to inform the candidates of the use of this information.

In addition, the Grantee and all co-candidates agree to acknowledge the Cancer Research Society in all their publications, presentations, etc. relative to support of grant-in-aid.

The Grantee hereby agree to indemnify and hold harmless the CRS, its officers, directors, representatives and employees from any claims, demands, judgments or orders made against the CRS and/or mentioned persons, arising out of the work carried on by virtue of a grant from the CRS or the actions of the Grantee while carrying out such work. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, this indemnity shall include legal fees and expenses should the CRS or its officers, directors, representatives or employees be called upon to defend a claim or action against them relating to the work or actions of the Grantee pursuant to a grant from the CRS.

The Grantee agrees to comply at all times with the general principles of honesty and scientific ethics, especially in relation to the use of for their intended purpose of the research funds received from the Cancer Research Society.
